J. Passage 1 (4)

There are artifacts and structures that suggest that the Chinese engaged in sporting activities as early as 2000 BC. Gymnastics appears to have been a popular sport in China's ancient past. Monuments to the Pharaohs indicate that a number of sports, including swimming and fishing, were well-developed and regulated several thousands of years ago in ancient Egypt. Other Egyptian sports included javelin throwing, high jump, and wrestling. Ancient Persian sports such as the traditional Iranian martial art of Zourkhaneh had a close connection to the warfare skills. Among other sports that originate in ancient Persia are polo and jousting.

A wide range of sports were already established by the time of Ancient Greece, and the military culture and the development of sports in Greece influenced one another considerably. Sports became such an important part of their culture that the Greeks created the Olympic Games, which in ancient times were held every four years in a small village in the Peloponnesus called Olympia.

Sports have been increasingly organized and regulated from the time of the ancient Olympics up to the present century. Industrialization has brought increased leisure time to the citizens of developed and developing countries, leading to more time for citizens to attend and follow spectator sports, greater participation in athletic activities, and increased accessibility. These trends continued with the appearance of mass media and global communication. Professionalism became more widespread, further adding to the increase in sport's popularity, as sports fans began following the achievements of professional athletes through radio, television, and the internet – all while enjoying the exercise and competition associated with amateur participation in sports.

33- What does the passage mainly discuss?

- 1) The effect of sports on human relations 2) Sports in different countries
3) The history of sports 4) The origins of early sports

34- According to the passage, it is NOT true that ancient Greeks -----.

- 1) introduced a large number of sports
- 2) were people with a culture greatly influenced by sports
- 3) held the Olympic Games in a less organized manner than we do today
- 4) held sports competitions in a particular village regularly, once every four years

35- The passage states that industrialization -----.

- 1) led to the appearance of new sports
- 2) made people less active than they used to be
- 3) put sports in the hands of a few special people
- 4) caused people to have access to more free time

36- According to paragraph 3, made sports more popular as sports fans began following the achievements of professional athletes through TV and Internet.

37- Our ancestors, ancient Persians, played a kind of sports which had a connection to -----.

K. Passage 2. (4)

Language is one of the important abilities which makes humans stand out of animals, so language loss raises serious questions about our history, our humanity and perhaps about our future, too. Any study of the history of language shows that languages, like humans, develop over time. According to some estimates, around 7,000 languages are still spoken in the world. But not all those languages are equally healthy. In fact, while some languages are healthy and powerful, others are in the process of dying and disappearing. In fact, research shows that languages are dying out very fast. Some believe that by 2100, most of these languages, perhaps as many as 90% of them, will no longer exist in the spoken medium. If this were plant life, or whales and dolphins, many people would be worried and ask something to be done to stop this unlucky process. Yet, surprisingly, there seems to be little interest in this terrible event. What is lost when a language ceases to exist? (H, 98)

38. What is the subject of this passage?

1. Language loss
2. How languages die out
3. Comparison of modern and old languages
4. The main difference between humans and animals

39. What does the phrase "these languages" refer to ?

1. Healthy and powerful languages
2. The languages that are dying out very fast
3. Those languages that manage to survive by 2100
4. The 7,000 languages are still spoken in the world

40. The passage most probably continues with a discussion of

1. the reasons why languages die
2. what to do to prevent languages from going out of existence
3. why people are worried about the gradual death of languages

4. what language loss makes us lose in addition to the language itself

41. People are more worried about the extinction (dying out) of whales than about the extinction of languages. True....., False.....

42. According to the passage, fortunately ,90% of languages will never die out. True....., False.....
