	From birth, children learn to manipulate their world to get their needs met but parents need to teach them respectful ways of doing things as they relate with others especially elders. Some fathers often forget that children aren't born with a built-in sense of respect for others. While each child has a different personality, all children need to be taught how to be respectful. As a father, it is important to remember that your child is not your friend, he's your child. Your job is to coach him or her to be able to function in this world. This means teaching them to behave
-	respectfully to others, not just you. When you think your child might be crossing the line, a good rule of thumb is to ask yourself, "Would I let the neighbor say these things to me?" If the answer is no, don't let your child do it, either. It is good to catch disrespectful behavior early. If your child is rude or disrespectful, don't turn a blind eye. Intervene and say, "We don't talk to each other that way in this family." As a parent,
